IRA MIGHELL WAS SENTENCED TODAY

SENTENCE PASSED BY JUDGE FARRAND EARLY THIS MORNING.

GETS 14 YEARS AT HARD LABOR

Erwin Enters Bill of Exceptions — Other Court Business Transacted.

Ira Mighell was this morning sentenced to 14 years in the state penitentiary at Joliet by Judge Farrand in the circuit court, and immediately his attorney, J. E. Erwin, gave notice of exception to the sentence and began the preparation of his bill of exceptions which will be taken to the supreme court, in an effort to have the case remanded for new trial.

Sentence was passed on Mighell soon after the convention of court when, after overruling the motion for an arrest of judgment His Honor passed sentence on the verdict, ordering that Mighell be confined in the penitentiary the number of years ordered by the jury, the first day of his imprisonment to be in solitary confinement and the rest of his time at hard labor.

Will Sign Bill Saturday.

However, Judge Farrand instructed the sheriff not to take the prisoner to Joliet until his attorney had had ample time to file a bill of exceptions and the record of the case with the supreme court. In expectation of the passing of sentence the record of the case had previously been prepared and Mr. Erwin had his bill of exceptions nearly completed. He expects to have the bill ready for Judge Farrand's signature tomorrow and will probably have it in the hands of a justice of the supreme court by Saturday night.

The supreme court is not now in session and will not convene until December 5. However, any justice of the court has the power to issue a writ of error, or supersedeas, and Attorney Erwin will get his bill and the record of the case into the hands of Judge Cartwright of Oregon as soon as possible. That official, after reading the record, will very probably issue the writ which will stay the proceedings until the supreme court has met and the evidence of the case has been read and passed upon by them.

Decision in December

Mr. Erwin will no doubt request the supreme tribunal to pass on the case at the December term, as to allow it to go over until the next term would make it necessary for Mighell to remain in the county jail here until the early spring. The record of the case is short and can probably be read in about two hours. Local attorneys anticipate that Mr. Erwin will have no difficulty in getting a decision by the supreme court during December.

Other Court News.

The judge also disposed of some minor matters which have been before the court. He sustained the master's report in the case of R. A. Walker vs. F. W. Hillis et al, a suit for a bill in aid of a special execution, and issued the decree. In the partition suit of Omar Drew vs. Willie D. Drew et al, he set aside all prior orders and dismissed the suit. The divorce case of Anna B. Taylor vs. Henry A. Taylor, in which suit evi-

Of the twelve five have been sworn, but of the other seven it is not expected that more than three will survive the exercise of peremptory challenges.

WILL NOT AD McNAMARAS

American Federation Fails to Make Appropriation for Case.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 24.—The American Federation of Labor will make no direct appropriation for the defense of the McNamaras. Opportunity to do so passed when the convention adopted the recommendation of a committee that labor organizations throughout the country be appealed to for more funds. The report made no mention of a direct appropriation, and it was put through before those who favored the proposed contribution had an opportunity to suggest an amendment.

ED LOAN, OF MAY IN COUNTY JAIL

BOUND TO GRAND JURY ON $2000 BONDS—AMBOY OFFICERS HAD TROUBLE WITH HIM.

BREAKS CONSTABLE'S FOREARM

Charges Are Larceny, Disorderly Conduct, Resisting an Officer and Assault With a Deadly Weapon.

Ed Loan, a May township farmer, is in the county jail, bound over to the grand jury under $2000 bonds, under several charges, conviction on any one of which will insure his confinement in the county jail or state prison for some time. Loan is charged with larceny, disorderly conduct, resisting an officer and assault with a deadly weapon.

The case grows out of a drunken spree which culminated yesterday in Loan's arrest yesterday at his home south of Amboy. He is charged with having robbed Nels McBride of East Grove township of between $200 and $300 in cash and a number of certificates of deposit, which he is alleged to have taken from the man's pocket while he slept.

Aussaults an Officer.

A warrant for his arrest was sworn out on the larceny charge and yesterday, accompanied by two Amboy men, Constable Stannard of Amboy went to Loan's home to arrest him. Loan resisted arrest and grabbing a shot gun which stood near, attempted to brain the officer. The officer, however, threw up his right arm to protect himself and received the blow on the forearm, the blow breaking the arm. Stannard's companions jumped onto Loan after the assault and overpowered him, loaded him and the injured constable into the auto and went back to Amboy, where Loan was arraigned before Police Magistrate Halloran, who bound him over to the grand jury under $2,000 bonds. Loan was brought to Dixon last night and is now in the county jail awaiting the action of the next grand jury.

CHICAGO VICE INQUIRY

Three High Officials Under Serious Charges.

Total List of Twenty Policemen and Officers Under Charges Since the Investigation Began

Chicago, Nov. 24.—An order suspending Inspector John Revere, Captain Baer, and Lieutenant John Hanley of the East Chicago avenue police station has just been issued by Chief McWeeny following the filing of charges against them by the civil service commission.

Preparations are being made for an early trial of Revere, Baer and Hanley. The inspector has been in the department twenty-four years. He was made an inspector in 1904. Baer joined the department in 1882. He has resigned twice, been reduced in rank twice, and discharged twice. Lieutenant Hanley joined the department in 1880.

The latest move of the merit commission makes a total list of twenty policemen and officers who face charges since the beginning of the investigation. It is said the commission has scarcely begun its work.

The charges against Revere, Baer and Hanley are inefficiency and neglect of duty, the same as against Dorman, Ambrose and Howard. Former Captain William Plunkett was involved in the same case, but avoided a hearing by resigning from the force.

TRAVELING SALESMAN DRUNK; INJURED

GROCERY SALESMAN SHIPS A LARGE CARGO—NOW AT HOSPITAL.

A traveling groceryman who registered at the Bishop hotel Tuesday as B. B. Smith, Chicago, and who has been drunk for several days, came to grief last evening when he fell on the rails near the ice houses in the east part of the city and received injuries to his head which made it necessary to take him to the Dixon hospital.

Smith has been coming to Dixon for several years and is known to many people in this vicinity. When he arrived here early in the week he proceeded to get on a protracted spree, which resulted in his being ejected from the Bishop hotel and his incarceration in the city jail Wednesday night.

He was released yesterday and ordered to leave the city. However, it develops that he continued his jag, and about 6 o'clock last night left a Galena avenue saloon where he had been drinking. He was not seen again until nearly 7 o'clock when Peter McCoy, who was driving past the ice houses, saw the man on the ground near the railroad tracks.

The man was unconscious and had a gash nearly four inches long over his right eye. He was loaded into Mr. McCoy's wagon and brought down to the police, who ordered him taken to the hospital. Smith is known to have had considerable money on his person earlier in the week and the officers are suspicious that he has been slugged for his money. Smith himself says, however, that he fell, as far as he can remember. As soon as he is able to leave the hospital he will be taken to the depot and sent out of town.

YOUNG WIFE MURDERER KILLED BY STATE TODAY—PAYS PENALTY.

CONFESSED TO HIS PREACHER

Had Hope of gubernatorial interference—Spiritual Advisors Pray With Condemned Man.

(Bulletin, 2:30)

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24.—Special to the Telegraph—Henry Clay Beatty, who was executed here this morning, made a written and signed statement containing the confession of the murder of his bride, by himself.

The written statement was handed by Beatty to spiritual advisors just before he stepped into the chair to be executed and has been made public.

The wife murderer says "I am truly sorry." He also states that he is at peace with God.

He was led from his cell in the death house to the death room, in which the jury of 12 men were seated in front of the grim looking electric chair, in which he was to spend his last living moment.

Beatty was deathly white and very nervous, but did not collapse. He was led toward the chair with a burly guard, the largest in the prison and especially selected for their strength, one on each side of him. When directly in front of the life-taking device he hesitated, but the guards whirled him around and pushed him into the chair, strapped his slender body to the arms and back and stepped back. The electrician was given the word, the motors began to hum, there was a hiss as the switch was thrown, the young man's lithe body stiffened against the staffs, relaxed, and all was over.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24 — Henry Clay Beatty, Jr., went to his death in the Virginia state death house this morning for the murder of his young bride, whom he slew for the sake of a former sweetheart.

The spiritual advisors of the condemned young man found him awake when they entered his cell at dawn today to pray for him, two hours before he was to go to the electric chair to pay the death penalty.

The young man was still hopeful that Gov. Mann would send him a reprieve, but when the time for the government killing drew near he gave up hope of escaping the death chair.

It would seem, from the actions of the brother, that Henry had made statements of a damaging nature, for when the boy came out of the cell and was questioned by reporters, he cried: "For heaven's sake, don't ask me what Henry said. I may tell you the story after the funeral, and as you love the light do not tell father that Henry made the statement."

Killed Wife Last July.

Mrs. Henry Clay Beatty Jr. was killed on July 18, last, while automobiling with her husband. On Sept. 8, the jury which tried the wife murderer brought in a verdict of guilty and Judge Watson sentenced Beatty to die in the electric chair Nov. 24. His attorneys fought the case hard and the governor was appealed to many times by the family and friends who are of very high standing in Virginia, but to no avail.

The case excited the entire country when the trial was going on and only really subsided today, when the handsome, cynical youth was led to the death chair.

NEW YORK HARD ON TROUSERS

Western Visitor Wears Out His Pocket Edges Digging Down After the Money.

The man from the west was in a clothing emporium in Broadway selecting a pair of trousers. "By heck," he said as he pawed over the pile before him, "this here town of New York is the beatin'est place on pants I ever got up against. Out in my town any hand-me-down pants I buy are good for a year, starting in with Sundays for the first three months and week days for the rest of the time. These I've got on were my best and not quite three months old. Now look at 'em," and he showed the clerk the left hand pockets, hip and side. The cloth was entirely worn off the edges and the white showed like a line of surf.

"How did that happen?" inquired the clerk, surprised, but sympathetic. "This town did it, that's what. I carry my change and small bills in the left side pocket and my bank roll in a book in the hip, and, by heck, I've been going down into them pockets so d— frequent for money since I've been in New York that I've wore the edges off till they don't look as if I had a cent to my name. Everywhere I go, everything I do, everybody I meet calls for the stuff, and I've got to answer. I've got it all right, but it's mighty hard on pants. And the wear and tear is just the same whether I go after a dime or a dollar. I've been wearing pants for 40 years and this is the first time anything like that ever happened to 'em."

"Have you ever been in New York before?" inquired the clerk kindly. "Never till two weeks ago, and I'm getting out of it day after tomorrow."

"I'm sorry," said the clerk. "I'd like to sell you another pair of trousers, soon."

SAW ONLY SIGNS OF BADNESS

Character-Reading Professor Discovers the Criminal Type but Overlooked the White Flower.

The professor who reads character from physiognomy, pointed to the boy opposite. He belonged to the criminal type, said the professor. Look at his eyes, his ears, his cheek bones, his mouth—criminal, every one of them.

The boy sat very still. All about him were other boys swinging ball bats, and cuffing each other's ears, but that, the professor said, was only the natural overflow of animal spirits; the quiet boy was too thoroughly steeped in criminality to have any animal spirits. Just as the professor's companion was beginning to wonder if it was safe to ride in the same car with the youthful degenerate the boy reached down into his pocket and brought forth a white flower. It was a common field flower, a cluster of tiny white blossoms topping a slender stalk. The boy seemed very fond of it. He twirled the stalk, he stroked the leaves and petals, and every touch was soft and tender. But the professor had no eyes for those gentle fingers, he was intent on the unmistakable signs of inherited depravity.

"A bad one, he is, all right," said the professor with a solemn shake of the head.

But the other person looked at the flower again. A bad one, was he? Maybe; but the other person had doubts.

Pearl Divers in Australia.

The Queensland (Australia) diver gets into his dress at daybreak, steps onto the ladder over the side, and fastens the life line around him; the tender screws on the face glass, the pumps are started and down goes the diver to look for shell. If he is on ground where shell is plentiful he fills his bag, then allows his dress to fill with air, which brings him to the surface, when he is hauled to the boat by the life line. He empties his bag onto the deck and goes down for another sackful. Some of the divers occasionally work in 25 fathoms.

The greatest danger with which the diver has to contend is paralysis, and knowing the risk he runs he sometimes demands $1,000 in advance, and this amount is sometimes lost to the pearler through the zeal and daring of the diver.

A Professional Paradox.

The study of science is not necessarily all gray; it may have its rosy patches. It is said that a learned professor of Heidelberg forbade his students the repetition of a certain experiment.

"But," they protested, "it has always been successful."

"Nevertheless," he said, "its position among experiments is absolutely untenable from an intellectual point of view."

The Boys Stared.

"The thing may answer very well in practice," said the professor, "but it is not sound in theory."—Youth's Companion.

Habits of Hedgehog.

The hedgehog passes the winter in sleep, with circulation almost suspended and body fires banked. It carries a reserve of glycogen and fat, however, and recent investigations have shown that soon after awakening it warms up by a rapid burning of glycogen. This carbohydrate proves to be the chief fuel, the fat being quite unimportant. The animal may be awake at a low temperature, for the awakening is distinct from the warming up, and whether the latter is voluntary or an automatic process is not yet determined.

DIXON OPERA HOUSE TOMORROW NIGHT — WITH EDGED TOOLS — A GREAT COMBINATION.

There is only one opinion in the press concerning the all-star English company that comes direct from Chicago here on Saturday night, Nov. 25 with Henry Seton Merriman's great play, "With Edged Tools," and that is, that it is one of the finest acting combinations ever sent from the other side. The newspapers say so and the public says so. The play ran 1979 nights in London and in England generally.

"EVERYWOMAN" WILL REMAIN AT GRAND OPERA HOUSE ONE MORE WEEK.

Inability to affect a cancellation of the engagement of "Everywoman" in Cincinnati during the week beginning December 3, has compelled Henry W. Savage to limit the Chicago engagement of the great dramatic spectacle to one more week and so, the final performance of the morality play at the Grand Opera House will take place Saturday night, December 2. If the patronage were the only element of the Chicago run to be considered, "Everywoman" could remain at the Grand for many weeks. In moving it at this time Mr. Savage is sending away from Chicago the offering which has achieved the only sensational success of the season and which is now at every performance being presented before audiences.

Ladies', Misses' and Children's Outfitters that tax the capacity of the theatre.

It did not take the theatre goers of Chicago and vicinity long to realize that in "Everywoman" they were being offered a play that was in the first place a distinct novelty; secondly, a play of purpose which pointed a moral in a most attractive way; and thirdly, a production of such size and elaborateness as is rarely made. In addition to such well known players as Frederick Warde, Marie Wainwright, Jane Oaker and Nestor Lennox, there are dozens of other members of the huge organization of whom it can be said without exaggeration that their reputations are of national extent.

GAS, DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION GOES

MAKES YOUR DISORDERED STOMACH FEEL FINE IN FIVE MINUTES

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach, if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in Water brash, Pain in stomach, and stomach), Bilioussness, Heartburn, Intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist and start taking now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong, Stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and Gas, that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives, or any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from Indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can surely get relief within five minutes.

OLD TESTAMENT TIMES BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

THE VALUE OF PRAYER.

Nehemiah's Petition For Israel. Nehemiah—Nov. 26
"The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."—James 5, 16.

THIRTEEN years after Ezra's company returned to Jerusalem, Nehemiah went thither with an escort and full authority from the king of Persia to rebuild the wall of Jerusalem and to restore its gates. It would appear that Ezra's reformation, while very helpful to the people, brought against them the violent opposition of their neighbors, as was to have been expected. The Jews, now considerable in numbers, were despised by their neighbors, who wished to drive them out of the land. The wall of the city was poor and did not withstand the attack.

Josephus says that Nehemiah, wealthy and favored of the king of Persia, resided in the king's palace at Shushan. He was a pious man and deeply interested in the land of his fathers. While walking one day he overheard two men talking in the Hebrew tongue and accosted them. They had been to Jerusalem and had returned. He gladly inquired respecting the holy land, the holy city, God's temple, and concerning the Jews who had returned from Babylon. The sad story of their trials and the desolation of the city and its exposure to enemies touched his heart and led him to prayer. That prayer is the subject of this lesson.

Undoubtedly the recorded prayer of Nehemiah is merely an epitomized statement, for we read that he made the matter a subject of earnest prayer for four months before he reached the point of action where God used him in the fulfillment of his own petition.

The poet has well defined prayer as being "the soul's sincere desire, uttered or unexpressed." Another has well declared that it "is the Christian's vital breath"; that is to say, Christian character cannot be maintained without prayer any more than a human life could be maintained without breathing. Who has not noticed that all the great Bible characters used of the Almighty were accustomed to go to Him regularly in prayer and to seek for guidance from Him in respect to every matter? Even the great Redeemer, holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners, needed to pray to the Father—needed His fellowship and communion—needed to be in touch with the Infinite One. Several of His prayers are recorded, and we are told that He spent the entire night in prayer on some occasions.

Some may ask, Would the Almighty change His plans in answer to our petitions? Assuredly He would not. Indeed, on the contrary, we are cautioned in the Scriptures to ask only according to His will. We are warned that if we ask amiss our petitions will not be answered. Hence the necessity for studying God's Word and being enlightened thereby.

The Redeemer gave us the keynote to this, saying, "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye may ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you." (John xv, 7.) Alas! how few seem to note the two limitations of this promise:

(1) The one asking must be in Christ—abiding in Him. This means that the petitioner has turned from sin, has accepted Christ and the terms of discipleship. It implies that he has made a full consecration of his life to the Lord and become a new creature in Christ Jesus. Such a abiding in Christ may pray to the Father.

(2) After having come into membership and fellowship with the Head, the Messiah, those must ask in harmony with God's Word and promises. In order to know what things to ask for they must search the Scriptures, which are sufficient, "that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished."

God is pleased to make use of the little talents possessed by His consecrated people. Those who pray for opportunities to serve the Lord and His cause and who watch for the fulfillment of their prayers in the open doors of opportunity will surely have them. "He that seeketh findeth."

What to Pray For.

Those in Christ may pray for earthly necessities, as in the Lord's prayer, "Give us this day our daily bread," but we are not to pray for more than the bread and water which the Lord has authorized His people to pray for. The true Christian, instead of thinking about what he shall eat, what he shall drink, and wherewithal he shall be clothed—instead of making earthly things the subject of his prayers, will be thinking of and praying about his higher, his heavenly interests.

ART EXHIBIT A SUCCESS—COMMERCIAL CLUB RENTS ROOMS.

Amboy, Nov. 24—The Art exhibit held by the Woman's club in the basement of the Congregational church Wednesday evening was attended by a fairly good crowd, the rain preventing many from attending. There was a display of pottery and a large collection of pictures, most of them being large photographs, with a number of fine copies in oil; a display well worth examining. Herbert Conner, the well known artist, gave a most interesting address on art and at its close presented to the club a fine specimen of his own work to be hung in the public library. This is an oil painting, framed ready for hanging, of the oil mill at Rockford, an old landmark of the early days.

Miss Stella Klefa unveiled the picture and Mrs. Sanger as president of the club, expressed the gratitude of all the club members for this valuable gift, which may be seen on the walls of the library.

Refreshments, consisting of doughnuts and coffee, were served by the ladies, and brought to a close a very pleasant evening.

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house."

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her."

HOW TO COOK IN PAPER BAGS

DIXON WOMEN INTERESTED IN FRENCH CHEF'S UNIQUE INVENTION.

Hot upon the heels—or shall one say the meals—of the fireless cooker and even hotter some folks say, now comes the newest relief for housewives, paper bag cooking which has been introduced in Dixon and already used in many homes. This is not a system whereby a paper bag, left all alone to itself, cooks a meal as if the chef had left his clever ideas in a cap; nor yet a system whereby one can look into a paper bag to find his next day's dinner, selected and prepared. But the prepared paper bag made especially for this use, is doing wonders for housewives who have patience and common sense to learn its use.

The advantage of paper bag cooking is apparently in retaining odors, which also retain flavor and in leaving no ugly dishes to be washed. The bag comes in sizes from the boudoir turkey sack to the tiny one for a single chop. There are various directions for proper use given such as folding the ends shut and fixing them with a wire clip, and keeping the seam on top so that if it steams open occasionally the food within is not spilled. Also the proper preparations so that the food shall not stick to the paper.

HENRY BERSCHIED FUNERAL SATURDAY

WOODMEN TO HUSK CORN ON BERSCHIED FARM MONDAY —OBITUARY.

West Brooklyn, Nov. 24—Special to the Telegraph.—The funeral of Henry Berschied, who died so suddenly at his home of apoplexy Wednesday, will be held tomorrow, Saturday, morning from his home at 9 o'clock and from St. Mary's church in West Brooklyn at 10 o'clock. Interment will take place in the Catholic cemetery at West Brooklyn.

Mr. Berschied, who was 47 years of age, leaves his wife, three daughters: May, Carrie and Ruth, all living at home. There are also his mother, of Kewanee, who has arrived here a brother, Mathias of Mendota and a brother, Felix, of Kewanee. There are several sisters living away from here.

Brother Woodmen Husk Corn.
The Woodmen, of which lodge the late Mr. Berschied was an honored member, have organized to go to the Berschied farm, near West Brooklyn, on Monday and husk the corn in the fields. There will be about 55 Woodmen in the husking gang.

This act on the part of his fellow-residents is indicative of the esteem in which the deceased was held. He was taken from a loving family circle and a host of friends in the prime of his life, and his loss will be keenly felt in West Brooklyn township.

As Angels Give.
If instead of a gem or even a flower we could cast the gift of a lovely thought into the heart of a friend, that would be giving as the angels give.—George MacDonald.

Gov. Mills of New Mexico says: In my opinion the right to vote in all elections should be given to women if they desire it. If the question is ever passed by the legislature and submitted to the male voters, I have no doubt that in this territory the vote would be in the affirmative.

FLOCK OF CROWS ON A JAG

Farmer Soaks Corn in Whisky and Finds Eight Birds Acting Much Like Men.

William Oles of Colebrook, has a large field of corn which has been ravaged for months by crows. Mr. Oles did not like that sort of thing very much. Searching his brain for a plan to end the unwelcome attentions of the crows, he came upon this idea: He would soak some of the corn in whisky and place it in the corn patch.

He did that the other night. The next morning he was awakened by a fearful jabbering in the cornfield. He rushed out to investigate. He found eight large crows staggering around the field and simulating the human voice as closely as nature would permit. He says he heard one of the crows sing.

When they saw Mr. Oles they tried to fly, but it was impossible. They couldn't even walk straight; in fact, they fell every few seconds.
Mr. Oles bundled them into a couple of parrot cages. When they sobered up he lectured them severely. Then he took them into the field, shot them, and left their bodies as a warning to other crows.—Winsted Correspondent, New York World.

The National Tree of China.

The tung, or wood oil tree, is worthily named the national tree of China. It is stately in appearance, with smooth green bark and wide-spreading branches, affording a fine shade. It bears a fruit resembling a shellbark hickory nut, but as large as a small orange. Each nut contains three triangular seeds similar to small Brazil nuts. The oil is pressed from these seeds and the refuse is used as a fertilizer. The oil is used principally for polishing woodwork and dressing leather. Considerable quantities are exported.

The wood of the tung tree is used for making musical instruments, fine boxes and the framework of small houses. It is believed that this tree might flourish in warmer parts of the United States.—Scientific American.

TOWER OF ENEMIES' HEADS

Monument of Modern Barbarism Erected by the Turks in 1809 at Nish, Servia.

A strange monument of modern barbarism still survives at Nish in southeast Servia. During the war of independence in 1809 the Serbian garrison here exploded a powder magazine and perished therein rather than fall into the hands of the Turks.

A battle had previously taken place and the Turks commemorated their victory by erecting a rude tower, ornamented with the heads of their enemies. Old people will tell you that there were once 1,200 heads, but as the tower was never more than 25 feet high, this is probably an exaggeration.

Lamartine and other travelers relate that they saw hair still clinging to the skulls, which must have formed a gruesome spectacle. During many years visitors were in the habit of carrying off skulls as souvenirs, but when Nish became Serbian the remainder were taken away for decent burial, all save a few that were too deeply imbedded. Recently the remains of the tower have been covered over with a roof to protect them against the elements and they are regarded as a pious object of patriotic pilgrimage.—Wide World Magazine.

STONES THAT ARE SOCIABLE

Traveling Pebbles of Nevada When Separated Move Rapidly Toward a Common Center.

"Traveling stones," from the size of a pea to six inches in diameter, are found in Nevada.

When distributed on a floor or other level surface, within two or three feet of one another, they immediately begin to travel toward a common center, and there lie huddled like a clutch of eggs in a nest.

A single stone removed to a distance of three and a half feet, upon being released, at once started with wonderful and somewhat comical celerity to join its fellows.

These queer stones are found in a region that is comparatively level and little more than bare rock. Scattered over this barren region are little basins, from a few feet to a rod or two in diameter, and it is in the bottom of these that the rolling stones are found. The cause for the strange conduct of these stones is doubtless to be found in the material of which they are composed, which appears to be lodestone or magnetic iron ore.—Harper's Weekly.

Good in Low-Voiced Reply.

We have discovered in our home that if the table talk gets too noisy one of the family may bring the rest to order by speaking in a sudden whisper. Parents often sacrifice much to give their children dancing and music lessons, but the most lovely accomplishment of all, a soft and pleasant-speaking voice, is something they may themselves develop in the children. I find that a child reflects almost instantly the tone of voice of one who speaks to him. A very gentle and low-voiced reply to an excited or angry child reduces his next remark to half in volume. To answer the vexation of a little child in a whisper catches attention, often brings a laugh and is far better than to stamp the fretful tone deeper by mimicking it, as parents sometimes do. Example is better than precept. Parents who have themselves learned self-control, and that it is never necessary to raise one's voice in order to speak with dignity and authority, are teaching their children priceless lessons. That a soft answer turneth away wrath is a cardinal maxim for the household.—Good Housekeeping.

Brer Rabbit, the Hero.

The folklore tales of the south and of the West Indies are often similar, the only difference being in the hero of the plot. Brer Rabbit is the hero of southern folklore tales; Bo Anancy takes the leading part in the West Indian epic. Geographical dissimilarity of origin explains the difference; the rabbit stories are of Congolese or Bantu origin; Anancy stories originated on the gold coast. The rabbit was the totem from which the Bantus were supposed to be descended, while the Tshi-speaking tribes, from whom West Indian negroes trace their descent, had the anancy, or spider, as their totem. In the Anancy stories wild animals have the gift of speech; they converse freely with men and live on easy social terms with them.—Samuel B. Jones, in the Southern Workman.

In the Garden of Eden.

"Did you know this was my birthday?" asked Eve.
"Could I forget it?" answered Adam.
"Let's see—how old are you, this year—now don't answer—let me guess. You are—ah—seven!"
"You hateful wretch!" cried Eve. "I'm only five, and you know it."
"But that is just like you men—you try to pretend that the time is dragging and that your wives are growing old! Just because you are over six, and have lots of gray hairs, you think you can insult your wife!"
Eden was never the same after that day.

At a Disadvantage.

"I suppose you will miss your boy while he is at college."
"Yep," replied Farmer Cornbloss. "I dunno what I will do without him. He got the live stock as they wouldn't move unless he give 'em the college yell, an' I can't remember it."

The Angler's Bait.
A well known angler at Petersburg, having obtained a wasp's nest containing a large number of grubs, placed the nest in the kitchen oven to kill the grubs so that he could use them for bait. The next morning he went to get the grubs, but on opening the oven door a swarm of wasps flew out. The oven was not hot enough to kill the grubs, but was sufficiently warm to hatch them.—London Daily Mail.

TAR PARTY CASE IN JURY'S HANDS

Men Accused of Mistreating Teacher Await Their Fate.

FAMOUS KANSAS TRIAL ENDS

Defense Endeavors to Prove that Parties on Trial Had No Part in Planning or Executing Outrage.

Lincoln Center, Kan., Nov. 24.—The "tar" party case went to the jury after two hours and a half of argument by attorneys.

No attempt was made by any of the attorneys for the defense in their addresses to defend the crime. Every effort was directed toward proving that the accused men had no hand in the planning or carrying out of the assault. Attorney Hawkes' address was a general running up of the case and strong defense of the story of Chester Anderson.

Colonel David Ritchie of Salina, Kan., taking the floor in behalf of Clark, Simms and Schmidt, the defendants, at the opening of the morning session, followed the lead of his colleague, Attorney McCurdy, by making a bitter attack on the "dirty dozen" of Beverly in general and Chester Anderson in particular.

"It was with this crowd that the plan had its inception," he said. "These defendants did not originate it or take any part in the execution of it."

Regarding the meeting at the mill, the speaker said that it could not be taken as proof that the defendants intended to take part in the assault. It was pointed out Schmidt and Simms were without their hats and returned to their homes to get them before they started to the "party." Had they planned to join the band, insisted the attorneys they would have worn their hats.

Six forms of verdicts, two for each of the defendants, were given the jury. One was to be used in case of guilty and the other not guilty. Thus the jury may be able to find any one or all three of the men guilty or innocent. When the judge began instructing the jury regarding returning verdicts Simms' wife, who faced the twelve men, leaned over and buried her face in her hands. Simms also bent over and did not look at the jury. Clark and Schmidt, however, gazed straight into the faces of the members of the panel, as they have done since the arguments started.

WITNESSES THREATENED

Detective Burns, at New Orleans, Makes Charges in McNamara Case.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 24.—Witnesses for the prosecution in the Los Angeles Times dynamiting case have been threatened with death, after having withstood repeated efforts of agents of the defense to bribe them, declared William J. Burns, the detective, in an address before the state secretaries' section of the American Bankers' association.

PRIEST SLAIN IN SZECHUAN

Wife of Chang Hsuan Arrested in Shanghai, but Released Later.

Shanghai, Nov. 24.—The French mission here has a report, but no details, of the murder of a priest in the southern part of the province of Szechuan.

The wife of Chang Hsuan, the imperial commander at Nankin, was arrested here by rebel spies, but the foreign consuls secured her release.

HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Superintendent and Watchman of Bayless Dam Must Face Jury.

Coudersport, Pa., Nov. 23.—Superintendent Fred N. Hamlin and Michael C. Bailey, who had charge of the water supply of the Bayless Dam and Paper company on the afternoon of Sept. 29 when the company's dam went out, almost wiping out of existence the town of Austin and causing more than three score deaths, were held to the grand jury by Justice W. W. Thompson for voluntary manslaughter. Each gave bail in the sum of $1,000. The grand jury will meet here Dec. 18.

M'NAMARA DEFENSE LOSES

Court Rules Against the Defendant on Three Points Raised.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 23.—The defense in the McNamara murder trial lost three legal points out of a possible three in rapid succession.

Two challenges for cause preferred because of opinion expressed by Talmadge F. A. Brode because one of the firm of his personal attorney is doing work for the state in this case, also was disallowed.

Judge Bordwell's ruling on the challenges brought up to nine the number of sworn jurors and talesmen accepted as to cause.

MOVE FOR DELAY LOST BY PACKERS

Chief Justice Refers Attorneys to Full Bench.

REFUSES TO HALT THE TRIAL

Suggests Appeal to Entire Court When It Meets Dec. 4.—Effort to Be Made to Secure Postponement in Chicago.

Washington, Nov. 24.—A stay in the trial of the Chicago beef packers was refused by Chief Justice White.

He referred the attorneys making the application to the entire bench, with the statement that the matter was of too much importance for him to pass on individually.

Attorney John S. Miller announced that such an application to the entire court would be made at the first sitting, Dec. 4.

Attorneys for the packers indicated that efforts will be made to have Judge Carpenter of the United States district court at Chicago, before whom the indicted packers have been summoned for trial on Monday, grant a further postponement until the supreme court passes on the matter.

The application for the stay in the trial was presented to Chief Justice White at his residence by Attorneys Miller and Levy Mayer. The ground for the application was gone over with some detail before the chief justice announced his decision to refer the matter to the full court.

The application before the court on Dec. 4 will be for a "superseas," the technical term for a stay of proceedings in the lower court.

TRY GIRLS WHO SHOT STOKES

Court Calls Jury to Pass on Fate of Millionaire's Assaultants.

New York, Nov. 24.—Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, the show girls, who shot W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire sportsman, last June, were brought to trial on indictments charging them with having attempted to take his life. Two other counts charge assault. Both young women were in the courtroom, stylishly attired.

Supreme Court Justice Merens of Buffalo, presides at the trial. Indictments are that considerable time will be spent in selecting a jury.

BONES AND SKULL IN COURT

Ghostly Evidence in the John Poole Murder Trial.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 24.—Bones and a broken skull pieced together with wire, the ghostly relics of a body believed to have been that of Joseph Kemper, a farm hand, were introduced as evidence in the trial of John Poole, charged with murdering Kemper. An undertaker and his assistants told the jury where shot had been found in the side of the skull.

Poole is alleged to have killed Kemper because the farm hand demanded his wages.

SPECIAL TROOP FOR GEN. OROZCO

Best Men in Army and Rurales Picked for It.

WILL STOP REYISTA ADVANCE

Orozco Is Popular and Will Do Effective Work — Rebels Are Routed in Engagement at Canada de Caracheo.

Monterey, Mex., Nov. 24.—It is stated in a dispatch from Mexico City:

"By order of the secretary of war a special fighting troop is being organized which will be composed of the best men in the army and rurales.

"Said fighting body is to be placed under the direct orders of General Pascual Orozco and will march at once for the seat of action in the northern part of Mexico along the border. The object of this body will be to oppose any attempt upon the part of the Reyistas crossing the border into Mexican territory. This report has been received with good effect and commented upon favorably, as it is well known the great following General Orozco has."

News of an engagement between the Reyista forces and the federal troops has reached this capital. It took place at Canada de Caracheo, where the revolutionists were attacked by a detachment of cavalry and the Reyistas were driven from the place in confusion and disorder. Forty of the Reyista troops were wounded. Reyistas burned two bridges of the Tehuantepec railway, thus greatly delaying traffic. Troops have been sent to that part of the country to rout the Reyista movement.

ARMS OF REBELS FOUND

Texas Rangers Uncover Munitions of War Ready for Uprising.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 24.—Many cases of rifles and ammunition intended for the Reyes revolution have been uncovered in Laredo and other points on the Rio Grande border by state rangers during the last few days, according to advices received by Governor Colquitt from Adjutant General Hutchins, who is directing the operations of the rangers from Laredo. All of the frontier between Laredo and Brownsville, about 300 miles, is now under effective patrol.

A dispatch from Laredo says that W. O. Stavor, chief of the immigration service at that place, who with seventeen men is patrolling a stretch of the Rio Grande 250 miles in length, makes the interesting statement that not less than 2,000 Mexicans have crossed the border illegally during the last month. "We could not have kept all of them out with 1,000 men," said Mr. Stavor.

M'KENZIE FOR GOVERNOR.

The Mt. Carroll Democrat says a great many Chicago republicans want Congressman John C. McKenzie to come out as a candidate for governor. The Sentinel-Leader suggested the same thing five years ago. McKenzie is a clean, able, honest, experienced man and would make a governor of whom the people of the state would feel proud. In reply to his statement that he was not able to stand the financial drain of a campaign the Democrat says there are honest republicans in Chicago who would volunteer the entire expense of a traveling campaign. John C. McKenzie would make an excellent governor. His record is as clean as a new dollar.—Warren Sentinel-Leader.

ROOSEVELT ATTACKS LAW'S DELAYS

SAYS CRIMINAL ASSAULT UPON WOMEN SHOULD BE CAPITAL CRIME—ATTACKS LYNCHING.

New York, Nov. 24.—Declaring the legal delays often result in exhibitions of lynching and demanding that criminal assault upon women be made a capital crime for which there must bear responsibility.

Roosevelt in the current number of the Outlook today attacked lynching in unmeasured terms.

"The repeated race riots and lynchings that have occurred in the northern states during the last decade must have convinced the least observant that neither race feeling nor the tendency to lynching is in a sense peculiar to the south. It is a horrible thing for which the whole country must bear responsibility.

"But mere denunciation of the crime of a mob amounts to little or nothing. We must recognize what the facts are that excite the mob to act. Dreadful though it is for the mob spirit to be aroused in a community by such a crime, it would be an even worse calamity if the community did not feel the fury of the indignation which produces the mob spirit. There is no question that there are serious breakdowns in the administration of justice in America. Slowness in deciding cases, readiness to admit appeals, the subordination of justice to legal technicalities, the irritating delays in getting the machinery of the law into motion and the utterly improper attention paid by the courts of the sharpness of lawyers in invoking technicalities—all of these result in frequent miscarriages of justice and in delays which, if long enough, amount especially in their effect upon the public, to an absolute miscarriage of justice."

Damage in City Is Heavy and Wiping Out of Place Was Feared.

Hinckley, Ill., Nov. 24.—This town of 2,000 inhabitants, fifty miles southeast of Chicago on the Burlington railroad, was swept by fire and it was feared the entire town would be wiped out.

The fire started shortly after 8:30 o'clock in the Burlington railroad elevator, in the business section of the town, supposedly from a spark from a passing railroad train. Within fifteen minutes the flames had spread to the lumber yard of Togue Brothers, leaving it in ruins and then to the Burlington depot.

The town has only a volunteer fire department, and, with its hand apparatus, was unable to cope with the blaze.

LITTLETON TIES UP COMMITTEE

Deserts Democratic Colleagues
Leaving Them Powerless.

WOULD TERMINATE INQUIRY

Chairman Stanley Is for Continuing Investigation—Ugly Row on Floor of House Is Expected to Develop from Situation.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Among the Democratic members of the Stanley investigating committee a situation has developed that is expected to terminate in an ugly row on the floor of the house of representatives.

According to information obtained here Representative Martin W. Littleton, Democratic member of the committee, has virtually withdrawn from the committee and his desertion has put his colleagues in a hole.

Representative Stanley, chairman of the committee, now finds himself with the minority and for all practical purposes his hands are temporarily tied.

Representative Littleton takes the position that as the government is proceeding against the steel corporation in the courts it would be unfair to harass that concern by forcing it to a defense before the committee of the house. Chairman Stanley sees no reason why the inquiry should be halted. He will oppose a motion which Mr. Littleton will make in the house that the steel investigation be discontinued.

"No corporation can buy or bulldoze a Democratic house of representatives," said Mr. Stanley. "The steel corporation is seeking to have the pending investigation brought to an end. I am willing to meet this issue on the floor of the house and I have no misgivings as to the outcome."

As things now stand the Republican members of the committee, acting in conjunction with Representative Littleton, are in control of the steel committee. It is assumed by Democrats of the committee that the four Republicans will stand with Littleton in the effort that is to be made to terminate the inquiry.

The situation is regarded as serious by Democratic leaders that it will be brought to the attention of Majority Leader Underwood immediately after his arrival here.

OIL KING DENIES FRAUD

Rockefeller Replies to Merritt's Testimony at Stanley Steel Inquiry.

New York, Nov. 24.—John D. Rockefeller, in a statement given out here, replied to the charges made by the Merritt brothers before the Stanley steel investigating committee, regarding the methods used by Mr. Rockefeller in obtaining control of the Mesabi ore mines, and the Duluth, Missabe and Northern railroad.

Mr. Rockefeller pointed out that these charges were denied under oath as long ago as 1895 in litigation over the Lake Superior consolidated iron mines. He furthermore submits the text of a paper bearing the date of Jan. 22, 1897, to which are attached the names of Alfred and Leonid Merritt and "all the other members of the family," declaring themselves satisfied that neither Mr. Rockefeller nor his agents committed fraud, made misrepresentations in the way in question.

BUCKS POULTRY TRADE

Mayor of Indianapolis Strike
Straight from Shoulder.

Mr. Shank Will See that People of His City Get Thanksgiving
Turkeys at Low Prices.

Indianapolis, Nov. 24.—Mayor Shank has determined that Thanksgiving turkey here shall be within reach of all classes, and he has gone to southern Indiana, where he expects to buy 1,200 to 1,500, which will be sold at cost and the expense of getting them here.

He has already arranged with A. L. Long of Fillmore for the sale of 300 turkeys, 700 chickens and 500 pounds of country butter on the market next Tuesday, the turkeys to sell at 17 cents and the chickens at 10 cents and the butter at 28 cents a pound. The mayor's purchase of turkeys is expected to arrive also in time for Tuesday market and if not they will be put on sale on Wednesday, the market to be open all day for the convenience of Thanksgiving buyers.

When it became known that the mayor would buck the poultry trade by buying turkeys, letters came pouring from many directions telling him that they would see that he did not lose through his operations.

24 KILLED IN WRECK

Train Plunges into the River
Thouet in France.

Bridge Over the Stream Gives Way and All the Cars Fall into the Swollen Waters.

Saumur, France, Nov. 24.—Twenty-four passengers lost their lives through the plunging of a train into the River Thouet, owing to the breakdown of a railroad bridge on the state railway at Montreuil-Bellay, in the department of the Maine-et-Loire.

The train, which had started from Angers, was traveling to Poitiers. It contained about 100 passengers. While it was crossing the bridge over the Thouet the structure which had been greatly weakened by recent floods, broke down, crashing with the whole of the cars into the swollen stream.

The total casualties by the accident numbered twenty-four. Eleven of the passengers clung for nine hours to the top of one of the submerged cars before they were rescued.

The newspapers violently attack the state railroad for the insecurity and dilapidated condition of the bridges on the Paris and Cherbourg and Havre lines. There was an absence of even the most primitive life saving appliance and although the accident occurred within a stone's throw of one of the most important stations on the line there were no dericks or steel hawsers which would have permitted the saving of a number of lives.

ADVANCE AGAINST PORTUGAL

Monarchists Cross Frontier—Prince Is with Duke of Oporto.

Lisbon, Portugal (via frontier), Nov. 24.—Advices from Montalegre say that a small group of monarchists, believed to be the vanguard of the main body, has crossed the frontier and tried to capture the town, but was repulsed by republican troops sent from Chaves.

It is declared that the Duke of Oporto, uncle of former King Manuel, is to take command of the monarchist forces and that he will be accompanied by the two princes, Miguel of Braganza, pretender to the Portuguese throne, and his son.

At Guimaraes, a fortified town in the province of Minho, a band of masked bandits calling themselves republican carbonaries entered the town armed with bombs and pillaged houses and other property. The military was sent in pursuit.

CHARACTER DOLL IS LATEST

Each Type Is Made After the Portrait or Photograph of a Real Child.

Perhaps the most interesting feature about the jointed child dolls is the fact that each type is made after the portrait or photograph of a real child, and is often a copy of a living model. One traces the incentive to realism in doll manufacture to a lovely elderly lady in Munich. She is an artist, and one with a deep love for childhood. It seemed to her that when one considered all the passion of love which a doll inspires in the breast of its owner, that little girl ought to have a pet that looked more human than dolls have been wont to look. With this idea she developed, in plaster, dolls that were exact imitations of the various peasant folk who came to Munich from Bavarian and other provinces of a Sunday. The holiday attire of each native village was represented. These delightful little figures of peasant life attracted the attention of the Empress of Germany three years ago—at the time when they first appeared—and she made Christmas presents of them to children of the royal household. She was delighted with the human-looking manikins, and this fact did not take long to spread throughout the Empire and reach the ears of Americans. Now the artist in Munich has several artist assistants to aid her in developing new peasant faces and types, and factories eagerly await models from her studio to dress according to her designs.—Harper's Bazar.

SOME NOVEL FRENCH CANES

Handles of Walking Sticks are Receptacles for Coins, Matches and Other Things.

The ingenuity of the Frenchman has not been confined to the making of weapons out of apparently harmless canes. In fact there is quite a variety of uses which the cane is made to serve.

One of the canes is fitted with a coin box and a match box, these being contained in the head, which is provided with a carefully concealed lid. The coin box is arranged to permit of depositing and easily removing the coin by a slight pressure of the thumb, thus obviating the necessity of fishing for coins in the pocket.

Another cane handle contains a complete outfit of the game known as Petits Chevaux. When the lid is open betting can begin and the horse crossing the wire first wins the stakes. One of the latest Parisian novelties consists in a ladies' parasol handle containing a roulette wheel which can be used for gambling at any place or moment.

These handles have become very popular. They are of fine workmanship and generally of gold or silver.

One handle contains almost everything that one would be likely to need. A long sheet of paper is wound around the rod, from which pieces may be torn off for taking notes. When the lid is opened penknife, pencil, nail file, combs and looking glass are disclosed. These objects are small, but large enough for practical use.—Scientific American.

Smoking in the Dark.

According to experts in the tobacco business the prevailing impression that a man cannot enjoy a smoke in the dark is erroneous. It all depends on the cigar. According to the best authority, sight plays no part in the enjoyment of a smoke, and it is pointed out that blind men are most inveterate smokers; in fact, blind men are expert in telling a good cigar from a poor one, as their sense of smell is so well developed. A New York cigar dealer says that one of his best customers is a blind man and he can tell a good cigar from a bad one by his sense of smell, even when standing a yard or more from his counter.

Most smokers do not like to smoke in the dark. They say it is necessary to watch the smoke ascend and to see the rings curl in order to thoroughly enjoy it, but cigar dealers say the enjoyment is really in the taste and not in the odor, and the sense of taste needs no light to make smoking enjoyable.

About the Putter.

The art of putting consists of doing for yourself slowly and inefficiently what you can pay some one else to do for you quickly and well. It is hard work that you do not have to do, strenuous loading that invites the soul.

The putter works in pure love, and if the produce prove a poor thing it is at least his own. To be a perfect putter is to achieve a liberal education.

Puttering is a tonic relaxation from the mechanical efficiency of our professional selves, a corrective of the extreme specialization that otherwise would result in our becoming all foot or hand or head. The putter makes laws and breaks laws and breaks the laws he makes. He produces startling variations from type. An inspired fool, he is a true creator.—From the Atlantic.

Same Thing.

"And he said he was willing to die for me?"

"Not exactly in those words, but that was the impression he was evidently trying to convey."

"What did he say?"

"He said he was ready to eat your cooking any time you said the word."—Houston Post.

Married Life Second Year

"NOW DON'T BE foolish! Go on if they want you to," urged Warren. "Wilson and I want to play out our match of billiards."

Helen stood reluctant. "Oh, but you know I don't like to go without you."

"That's absurd. You've been in all day—the air'll do you good."

"Come on!" cried the Stevensons who were already out in the car. "Mr. Summers will take care of you if your husband don't come."

Helen hurried down the path to the waiting car.

"I believe you're to sit back here with me," said Mr. Summers, as he sprang out to help her in. "Helen! I better get you a heavier wrap? Will that thin one be enough?"

"Oh, yes, quite enough," as she settled herself back in the wide leather seat.

Mr. Summers was a cousin of the Stevensons and had been at the hotel for some time. Helen knew that he admired her. Her woman's intuition told her that. He had formed one of their party for a number of rides and outings and had been particularly attentive to her.

Often when Warren, with his usual indifference, had left her to look after herself, it was Mr. Summers who had hurried to help her in and out of the car, and in many ways had been solicitous about her comfort.

Helen had shrunk from these little attentions because they seemed only to emphasize Warren's neglect. That anyone else should have to look after her when her husband was present seemed but a direct reflection on him.

And now as they sped through the night over the smoothly oiled roads, with Mr. Summers beside her in the seclusion of the deep back seat, Helen was conscious that by his very silence he was in some way creating between them a curious sense of intimacy.

There is nothing more subtle, nothing that can be made more pregnant with meaning than a conscious silence. Now and then a sudden jar of the machine swayed her toward him and she was conscious of his arm against hers—and conscious of his consciousness of it!

She tried to think of something to say—something simple and natural, anything to break the silence that grew more and more insistent.

"All the roads around here are so well kept," she murmured at length. "I wonder how often they oil them."

But the remark was so banal and its purpose so obvious that it only increased her discomfort. And when he answered:

"Every few days I suppose," and then offered no further comment, the silence was more pronounced than ever.

Helen was intensely glad when, a little farther on, they stopped at a road house. She sprang out quickly without giving Mr. Summers a chance to help her.

"Let's take a table out here on the porch," suggested Mrs. Stevens. "It looks so hot and stuffy inside. Isn't that road well kept?"

The porch was lit only by the light from the shop through the window.

Helen would rather have gone inside, where the bright lights would have helped to dispel this atmosphere of subtle romance that Mr. Summers was deliberately trying to throw about her.

"Walt Stevens, I'm doing this," and Mr. Summers pre-emptorily beckoned the waiter and gave the order. "Now you are sure you won't have a sandwich or a salad?" he asked, leaning toward Helen who had ordered only a claret lemonade.

She shook her head. "No, that is all I care for."

"Oh I forgot your footstool!" as the waiter disappeared. "I'm afraid I'm not taking such very good care of you after all."

"Oh I don't need a footstool for the few moments we'll be here," answered Helen, keenly conscious of his intimate tone and yet not knowing how to resent it.

They had all dined together several times, and when he had found she always wanted a footstool and that Warren had usually left it for her to ask for, he had been quick to procure one, surreptitiously tipping the waiter for bringing it. Each time Helen had secretly resented that anyone should need to look after her when her husband was present, but Warren had not seemed even to notice.

The Stevensons were now absorbed in the discussion of the new apartment they were leasing this fall. And Helen, seemed as much alone with Mr. Summers as she had been on the back seat of the car.

She grew more and more angry with herself for the self-consciousness she seemed unable to throw off. In some subtle way he was making her keenly conscious of his every movement and of every inflection of his voice.

Oh, why had not Warren come with them? Why had he insisted on her coming alone? There was nothing in this that she could tell him. It was all too subtle for Warren, and yet she knew she never alone again.

When they went back to the car he helped her in and insisted that she put on her wrap. He held it for her and drew it slowly and carefully about her shoulders.

It had been rather a cloudy uncertain night when they started. And now to Helen's dismay it began to sprinkle.

"Want the curtains up back there?" asked Mr. Stevens.

"Oh no—no, it's only a few drops, and I love to feel it against my face," answered Helen quickly, feeling that to be shut in back there by the rain curtains would only add to the intimacy of it all.

"But I can't have you getting wet and taking cold," protested Mr. Summers.

Helen felt her face flush at the proprietary words, "I can't have you," but there was nothing she could say.

The few heavy drops had now changed to a fine misty rain. "Now I must insist on having the curtains up," as he leaned over and felt the shoulders of her wrap which were now quite damp.

Helen could only submit. Mr. Stevens stopped the car and came back to get the curtains which were under their seat. When the curtains were fastened in place, it left them in complete darkness there in that deep back seat. Helen felt as though she was shut in with him from all the world.

As they sped back to the hotel through the now beating rain, Mr. Summers again felt the shoulders of her wrap, and the fastening of the curtain beside her, for she shrunk over to her extreme end of the seat. "Isn't the rain coming in through the opening there? Come over this way more. I'm sure you're getting wet!"

A sudden crash of thunder and a dazzling glare as the lightning swept before them. Helen gave a little cry. Instantly Mr. Summers' hand covered hers.

"You're not frightened—are you?" "Oh, no—no," quickly withdrawing her hand. "It was absurd for me to scream."

"It was very natural," he answered gently, with a caressing note in his voice which made her cheeks burn hotly.

At last they drew up before the hotel. Hardly waiting to say good-night, Helen flew up the path, across the veranda and up to her room.

Warren was in bed, his arms flung up over his head, fast asleep. Noiselessly she sank into a chair beside him. With a sigh of relief and happiness, very softly, without waking him, she rested her head on his pillow.

The unwanted and distasteful attentions of another man always make a woman turn clingly to the man she loves.

To Helen the whole evening had been hateful. And now that she was with Warren again, she was filled with a delicious sense of peace, of security, of being where she belonged.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL.

"No, I can't marry you, Monty," she said, as the young man rose sadly from his knees. "You play a splendid game of bridge, and your tennis is simply divine. But—well, I do not love you, and marriage is futile without love."

"It's more futile without money, weally," answered Monty, dejectedly dusting his trousers. "I've three thousand a year, Wosie. Isn't that enough?"

A million wouldn't be enough without love," said Rose.

"Oh, nonsense! Look here, Wosie. S'pose we married, and you had all the dresses and theatres you wanted. Well, don't you think you'd learn to love me in time—eh, Wosie?"

She regarded his freckled features and red hair for a few agonizing moments.

"Perhaps I might," she admitted thoughtfully. "I once learned to like tomatoes!"

Rather Difficult.

In a village within an hour's journey of Glasgow, much frequented by Summer visitors, the sole barber of the place is noted for his leisurely ways, and to put oneself into his hands means a considerable sacrifice of time. Among the regular visitors were a father and son, who were inseparable companions. The elder had been in the hands of the knight of the razor for some considerable time, the youngster meanwhile cooling his heels outside. He kept popping his head in at the door to see how matters progressed, but at last, becoming exasperated, and just as dad's face was in full lather and the barber leisurely stropping his steel, the door again opened, and a plaintive voice wailed:

"Oh, father, can ye no' leave yer face w' him, an' ca' back for't the morn'?"

Same Old Story.

It became the solemn duty of the justice to pass sentence on an aged man for stealing.

"It is a shame that a man of your age should be giving his mind up to stealing. Do you know any reason why sentence should not be pronounced on you according to law?"

"Now, judge," was the reply of the aged sinner, "this is getting to be a trifle monotonous. I would like to know how a fellow can manage to please you judges. When I was only seventeen years old I got three years, and the judge said I ought to be ashamed of myself stealing at my age. When I was forty I got five years, and the judge said it was a shame that a man in his very best years should steal. And now when I am seventy years of age, here you come and tell the same old story. Now, I would like to know what year of a man's life is the right one, according to your notion."

Perhaps Not.

Charles Frohman smoking one of his huge, black and superb cigars, discussed in New York a concealed English actor.

"He often asked me to bring him over to the States," said Mr. Frohman, "but I could never see my way. I met him not long ago in London. I was lunching at an A. B. C. and he came up to me in great spirits."

"Well, Mr. Frohman," he said, "I'm going to America at last. Just signed my contract yesterday. It's for $5000 per—five thousand per—"

"He looked at me nervously. 'Oh, I see,' said I. 'Five thousand perhaps.'"

Old Gentleman—Well, my little man, how old are you?

Tommy Ruffian—My age varies, sir. When I'm railway travelling I'm under twelve, and when I go to fetch the beer I'm over fourteen.

WHY SO WEAK?

KIDNEY TROUBLES MAY BE SAVING YOUR LIFE AWAY. DIXON PEOPLE HAVE LEARNED THIS FACT

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills make sick kidneys well. Here is Dixon testimony to prove it. Mrs. William Toot, 512 W. Second St., Dixon, Ill., says: "I suffered for years from kidney complaint and my back ached persistently. I was so weak at times that I could not attend to my housework and nothing did me any good. Finally, I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Leake Bros. Co's Drug store, and they cured me. I feel that my experience should convince the most skeptical person of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. I know of a number of other people who have taken this remedy with great benefit" (Statement given February 5, 1907.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT
Mrs. Toot was interviewed on January 5, 1910, and she added to the above: "I have no hesitation in verifying my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. During the time that has elapsed, I have taken this remedy occasionally and it has always brought prompt and effective relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Long Life To Death

The colonel's ruddy countenance beamed like a summer's moon as the rising tide of voices broke into peals of laughter across the table.

"No, no!" Latimer protested, breaking in upon what promised to be the colonel's hand-hour homily to the hot blood of youth. "No crown of years and honors for me, please."

"A short death and a merry one is good enough for Latimer," Burke interrupted.

"With a quick death and a sure one," some one else supplied.

"And a large cold bottle and another one," Burke continued, running the toast down to a finish.

Above this uproar of protest and applause a clear soprano lifted.

"For he's a jolly good fellow," and the colonel, having gotten only so far as the battle of Gettysburg in his remarks, joined with a will in the chorus and forgot to finish the rest of his one, time-honored speech.

Whether the drawn lips framed the words or the cry of her soul thrilled the question to his own, Latimer could not have said, but against his will his eyes turned to those of the woman beside him.

"For a send-off," he explained with overdone nonchalance. "I got my orders yesterday."

Other than an all but imperceptible straightening of her shoulders the girl gave no sign she had heard.

"Azalee is more radiant than ever to-night," a plump matron leaned across the colonel to say to a red-haired girl, noting the effect of the unwonted pallor and burning eyes.

"Why shouldn't she be?" the red-haired girl snapped in answer, "with a two-million-dollar count for a husband?"

"Is it announced?" the plump woman gasped. "I had heard nothing of it. She has decided then between the count and General Espondola?"

"The mere fact of the colonel's sending her in to dinner with a nobody-in-particular like Lieutenant Latimer points to the fact that she has decided upon one of them but is not going to announce it yet," the red-haired announced with an air of superior wisdom.

"Ah, yes," agreed her fat friend with something like a sigh; "I suppose even Azalee could not stand out long against two millions."

Here a sudden outburst of laughter at the other end of the table gave Latimer the further chance to add:

"Of course, this is sudden. A soldier's movements are bound to be you know."

The shadow of the waving, interlacing vines fell in delicate tracery like the meshes of a net upon the man and the woman at his side, and the heavy fragrance of the air dragged it with bitter-sweet memories that would not down.

"But you are ordered back to the United States—not to Miranda?"

The voice of the questioner and the terms of the question brought Latimer up with a pride in the sporting blood of the Dons. He could not see the wicked little half-moons her nails were cutting into her palms.

Noting their apparent lack of interest in each other, a man leaned across the table with a story meant to stimulate conversation, at which Azalee parted her lips in a smile that seemed to pass for mirth. A scarlet camellia had fallen from its high estate in the blue-black masses of her hair and hung rakishly over her ear, but she did not care.

"Latimer is at it again, making hay with the last ray left," the colonel bent toward the plump matron to say, who, seeing farther than the happy faces and the gleaming shoulders dimpling into the fluffy whiteness against the uniforms of the men, nodded, adding: "The days of our youth are the days of our glory," and the two gray heads leaned closer to mourn together their lost paradise.

"This is an exchange of your own seeking?" a lifeless voice at his elbow aroused Latimer.

"I am acting under orders," Latimer repeated, reaching for the tray in front of him, but the hand that rolled his cigarette was not now the hand of the man who held medals for marksmanship.

The red-haired girl, springing cat-like upon Latimer's unguarded moment, caught, too, Azalee's futile effort to raise her fork to her lips.

"Why, what's the matter with you, Azalee?" she asked, directing the others' attention to the girl's nerveless hand; "your ring positively clatters against your plate," trying to hate her for her beauty and great luck.

And Azalee, darling of the gods, looking into the glitter of light and color before her, saw only swirling blackness. The night was sultry to suffocation, but the elect, white figure shivered. Twirling the heavy ring on her finger, "this is a most interesting ring," she said quietly, turning the point of contact from her hand to the heavy ring upon it. "It has a history."

"And that is—?" Burke questioned, carrying on an animated conversation with his neighbor and hearing everything else that was said.

"The poisoner's ring given my grandfather by Maximilian when he found their cause was lost," she answered briefly.

Latimer, listening to the cool tones and steady voice, went down on the knees of his soul to this daughter of a hundred Dons, although he thanked his stars for this chance to make his final adieu in public. She wept and swoon or snap her fingers in his face, Latimer had fancied; but this high-handed counter-play had never suggested itself in connection with the mercurial Azalee. An unwelcome vision of the thin-soled little wife at home turning him back to Azalee, Latimer whispered softly, "I hope the gods have another meeting in store for us, and that you will not—forget."

The rubies in her breast flashed like a jet of blood from a thrust, but the smoke wreath she blew from her lips interposed a moment's merciful veil before her eyes.

"Here's at you again, Latimer," Burke, always to be relied upon to do the right thing at the wrong time, chipped in. "Here's to your safe voyage home and sure return to the Philippines." And as the evening waned and the toasts went around the table, the soprano girl sang to a three-string accompaniment something about love and death and evermore, sometimes on and sometimes off the key.

At last Azalee poised her glass in mid-air.

"Is it a pas seul?" the red-haired girl asked, noticing the tension of her poise.

"Long life to Latimer," some one proposed, seeing the girl's instant's hesitation.

"Long life to the girl I left behind me!" the mal-apropos Burke again interrupted, having caught something of the side-play between Azalee and Latimer during the evening.

With eyes dilating, bosom heaving, radiant, reckless, Azalee faced Latimer.

"Long life to—death!"

The next instant glass and ring crashed upon the table, the wine stains streaming like blood upon the floor.—MARGUERITE STABLER.

STRIKE FLOWING OIL WELL

Discovery Starts Rush at Duquoin, and Price Jumps Every Moment.

Duquoin, Ill., Nov. 24.—Land values here increased from $65 an acre to $100 an acre during twelve hours and there is little for sale at that price. The boom followed the discovery of oil on the farm of John Harris, west of this city.

Drilling had reached a depth of about 1,350 feet when oil was discovered. The well is located within a short distance of the St. Louis-Eldorado division of the Illinois Central railroad. The promoters are St. Louis capitalists.

The flow is such that the expert drillers are of the opinion that it will not be necessary to "shoot" the well, as oil is now flowing steadily from the mouth of the hole. It cannot be determined for forty-eight hours just how valuable the strike may prove.

Most of the land in the immediate vicinity of the well is under option to the St. Louis capitalists, who are in a position to acquire several thousand acres.

BLACK HAND MEN SLAIN

Two Are Killed Outright and a Third Is Fatally Wounded.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Two Italians, said by the police to have been Black Handers, were shot and killed and another member of the murderous gang is dying at the People's hospital.

The shooting occurred in the Archer avenue subway under the Rock Island tracks. Captain Patrick Harding of the Twenty-second street police station is of the belief that the three men were lured to the spot by countrymen whom they victimized by Black Hand methods. The captain says that Chicago is rid of "the most desperate gang of Black Handers that ever infested the city."

The dead are Francesco Denello and Pasquale Demico. Stefano Denello was fatally wounded.

The broken leg that has laid him up since September is mending nicely and it is said to be only a question of a week or so until all the stiffness will be out of the part affected.

BY THE USE OF UNION COOKERY BAGS.

They give five strong reasons why they should be used. First, it makes every dish more savory and nutritious; Second, it is economical; the food weighing practically the same when drawn from, as when put in oven. Third, it is labor saving—no cleaning of pots or pans. Fourth, it is hygienic—no germ-haunted cooking utensils. Fifth, no smell of cooking.
